Involuntary Ball-fights.
I regret to say that involuntary bull-fights are the order of the day. If, now and then, an innocuous cow gets mixed up in them, so much the worse for the cow. The Board of Health, who have restricted the driving of cattle through the city, are in a dilemma, and the horns of the dilemma are bull's borns. Within the past week or ten days half-a-dozen infuriated boyines have kicked up mud and madness throughout the city. One instance occurred on Thursday, two on Wednesday, one last Sunday, and certainly one or two the week previous. The last instance is that of a steer which broke loose from the slaughter-house of Eisner & Co., at the corner of Forty-seventh street and First avenue, and dashed around miscellaneously between Thirty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets and First and Fifth avenues. Near the corner of Second avenue and Forty-Fourth street, a laborer engaged in some blasting operations hit upon an ingenious method of restoring to the bull the proper use of his faculties. He flourished a danger-signal in the shape of a red flag, and pretty nearly put an end to himself by so doing, for the steer dashed at him, tossed him high and dry, and dislocated his shoulder-blade. Finally the animal received a fatal shot at the corner of Thirtyninth street and Ninth avenue. In the summer mad dog was the cry. Now it is mad bull, and all the fault of that well-bullied Board of Health. Before the new regulations were in force the bovine herds trudged through the city quietly enough. Now the only chance the pedestrian has of feeling safe from them consists in his carrying concealed

The Evening Telegram. Sometimes I buy the New York Evening Telegram. I like to be amused, and the Telegram is a sort of daily evening Punch-not milk punch-milk-andwater punch would describe it more accurately. It is difficult to smile with an aching stomach; but I think if I had the colic pretty bad, I should smile gingerly (Brown's Jamaica) at the Evening Telegram's attempts to make me. Those wonderful cartoons, three times a week, are prepared by artists whom I never heard of, but whose humor I profoundly admire. I am prepared to believe, however, that the sheet is about to enter upon a prosperous future, for it has just come under the managerial control of Mr. Samuel Glenn. a gentleman who has had a great deal of experience on newspapers and off. He is no longer young, but he has got rid of nearly all the crudities which youth is hampered with. I hope the journalistic personalities which have hitherto distinguished that paper will in future be discontinued. They gave undue prominence to nobodies, and were the laughing-stock of chance readers who don't subscribe.

The Dalzell Divorce Case. Perhaps you remember the circumstances of the Dalzell divorce case which I mentioned a couple of weeks ago. The main features were the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Dalzell on account of incompatibility of temper, and the marriage of Mr. Dalzell to a young New York lady. Last Monday Dalzell was required to show cause for divorce, but Dalzell did not appear either in person or by attorney. Satisfactory affidavits, however, were produced before Justice Tappen, upon which he ordered that the order of reference and judgment be set aside, and that the defendant, Mrs. Dalzell, come in and defend. It was ordered, besides, that Dalzell should pay to his former wife $75 per week from the beginning of the present year until the settlement of the case, and $750 counsel fees. Mr. Dalzell, meanwhile, is in San Francisco. People are trying to find how much property he has there, and where he keeps it.

Parepa Rosa's Portrait. At Kurtz's Gallery, Mr. Oscar Kunath is making a life-size portrait of Parepa-Rosa. Mr. Kunath being small man, and Parepa-Rosa being a good sized woman, he rises every morning at four o'clock so as to get it finished betimes. When completed it is to remain in the Gallery, for the entrance door is only the usual size, and the artist naturally objects to having it carried away in sections.

Carlotta Patti's Concerts. The concert season of Carlotta Patti, in this city, is for the time being drawing to an end a matinee, she gives her eighth concert, and will then disappear for a time, to concertize in Boston, Philadelphia, and elsewhere. Let me advise you to be astonished at the amazing volume and sweetness of her voice. Have you ever heard the ringing, melodious vibrations produced when awet fingeris drawn around the moistened rim of a glass goblet? Such, upon a much vaster scale, is the quality of some of her tones. Her concerts, therefore, have been very great successes, both in an artistic and a pecuniary sense. While she is singing, or waiting to commence, one forgets for a while the misfortune which alone prevents her from becoming as great a queen upon the operation as she is upon the concert stage. It is a pity that she does not always dress with taste. Imagine a yellow dress looped up with pink roses! All the astonishing vocal games at hunkadee she performed with her voice in the "Carnival of Venice" could not banish the impression of that red and yellow. Why don't prime donne carry people around with them who can show them how to dress?

In a certain house in Canal street have been found the remains of a skeleton, which twenty years ago resided in the body of a woman who was most mysteriously murdered. The unromantic instrument of her murder was a broomstick, which surely never before, in the history of man, was employed as a deadly weapon in so unnatural a manner. By means of the peculiar mode in which the assault was made the body was completely ripped up, and the victim left to die a lonely death. Now, after the lapse of nearly a quarter of a century, the mystery is un-

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

"Masks and Faces" at the Chesnut. Masks and Faces, the joint production of Tom Taylor and Charles Reade, is a work of very rare and peculiar merit. The plot, slight as it is, is very well managed; the situations are dramatic in the best sense of the word, the characters are admirably contrasted, and the play is a perfect little cabinetpicture of the green-room society of hundred years ago. The defect of the piece is that it lacks body. Some of the scenes are so brief that they scarcely allow the actors to give more than slight sketches of character, and if Mr. Reade would remodel the work, elaborating some of the situations in the first and second acts, and adding some of the very interesting Woffington," he would make Masks and Faces one of the very best acting comedies on the stage. The green-room scene in the story might almost be lifted into the play without alteration, and it would not only be an improvement, but it would give a better view of "Peg Womington," actress, than is now

The performance last evening attracted a fashionable audience, and with the exception of a few inequalities, which even in the best managed theatres are inseparable from the merely occasional production of a piece of this kind, it was The honors of the evevery well done. were fairly divided between Miss Keene, who played the part of "Peg Wollington" with grace, vivacity, and power, marking the lights and shades of the character with fine a tistic skill, and Mr. Sheridan, whose personation of the poor poet and painter "Triplet" was an armirable piece of character acting that established him in the regards of the audience as a thoroughly capable thoughtful artist. Mr. Sheridan is a quiet actor, and on that account he will probably not become as great a favorite with a portion of the play-going as some others, but like Mr. Mackay, who is an artist of much the same stamp, he will certainly obtain a firm hold upon the regards of those who can appreciate refined and intelligent art upon the stage. It would be difficult to pick a flaw in Mr. Sheridan's "Triplet," and we hope that Masks and Faces will often be given upon the Chesnut street boards, if only for the sake of these two fine personations.

peared as "Ernest Vane," and acted the part in a very spiritless manner. Miss May Howard, who is fast establishing a reputation as an artist of unusual abilmy, made an excellent representative of "Mabel Vane," with the exception that her costumes, although rich and elegant, were not altogether appropriate. The other parts were creditably represented, as follows :- "Sir Charles Pomander," Mr. McManus; "Colley Cibber," Mr. Wallis; "Mr. Quin," Mr. Stanton; "Soaper," Mr. Otis; "Snarl," Mr. Creese; "Kitty Clive," Miss Laurens.

The "STAR" COURSE OF LECTURES, under the management of Mr. T. B. Pugh, will be inaugurated on Tuesday, Oct. 19, by Miss Anna Dickinson, who will lecture on "Whited Sepulchres." The title of this lecture has led to some misapprehension as to its character, and for the benefit of those who are de-sirons of knowing what Miss Dickinson really intends to discourse about, we state that the lecture will be an account of her recent visit to Salt Lake City, and her opinions of Mormonism. The sale of tickets for the first ten lectures of the course will commence on Monday next, at Gould's, No. 923 Chesnut street. A Grand Musical Festival will be held on Monday, October is, at the Academy of Music, for the benefit of the Orphans' Home at Germantown.

NEWS SUMMARY.

City Affairs.

-The alarm of fire about 9 o'clock last evening was caused by the rekindling of some embers in the cellar of the old building at the southeast corner Broad and Cherry streets. The flames were soon extinguished.

-Last evening, about 6 o'clock, Ellen Midward, aged 12 years, residing at No. 324 Crown street, fell from the Fairmount basin, and was seriously injured. She was removed to a neighboring drug store. where medical aid was rendered

-Mr. M. H. Dickinson, Chief Commissioner of Highways and Bridges, has taken steps to clear the Schuylkill of the rains of that portion of the bridge at Penrose Ferry which was destroyed by the freshet, and which now impede the navigation.

-A considerable portion of what is known as "Neck" in southern Philadelphia is now under water, and not a few of the residents in that section are sufferers. The water in many places compelled the occupants of houses to vacate them, and at the same time leave many of their effects behind. Generally they have been kindly accommodated with temporary homes by those who occupy ground which the water will not reach. That portion of the Pennsylvania Railroad track which runs along the meadow-lands near the Delaware river is overflowed, and cannot be used until the water subsides. This overflow is caused by the carrying away of a portion of the banks of the Delaware by the recent rains and subsequent freshet.

The Charges Against General Ames.

JACKSON, Oct. 8.—The Vicksburg Times of to-day has the following telegram, addressed to President Grant, which was sent from this city last evening.—

General Ames, in an official interview with a citizen of this State, on Monday last, used this anguage:-"I intend to carry the election in November against Judge Dent if I have to march my soldiers from precinct to precinet to effect Will such action fall within his legitimate official power? The people wish a fair expression of the public will in the choice of Governor. The consummation of the Military Governor's avowed purpose will render the election a cheat and a national degradation. A. C. Fisk, Chairman National Union Republican State Executive Committee.

The following from General Ames to the President, this evening, explains itself:—
His Excellency U. S. Grant, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:—By the papers I see a telegram has been sent you, wherein am quoted to the effect that I will not give a fair election. The statement is without truth. ADELBERT AMES, Brevet Major-General.

VIRGINIA.

Ratification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. RICHMOND, Oct. 8 .- Both houses of the Legislature to-day ratified the fourteenth and lifteenth amendments. In the House there were only six votes and in the Senate only four against the fourteenth, and two against the fifteenth, one of the latter being a colored Republican Senator, who declined voting because he believed the Legislature was illegal. The Legislature then, joint resolution, adjourned until October 18. In the House an amendment to the bill passing the fifteenth amendment, making it take effect on and after the admission of the State to the Union, only received five votes. In the same body a resolution was offered that, in view of doubts expressed about the legality of this Legislature, it will, after admission to the Union, reenact the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. The resolution was referred.

IN MEMORIAM.

Official Announcement by President Grant of the Death of Ex President Pierce. The following was made public yesterday after-

Washington, Oct. 8, 1869.—The painful duty devolves upon the President of announcing to the people of the United States the death of one of his honored predecessors, Franklin Piesce, which occurred at Concord early this morning. Eminent in public conneils, and universally beloved in private life, his death will be mourned with a sorrow befitting the loss which his country sustains in his decease. As a mark of respect to his memory, it is ordered that the Executive Mansion and the several departments at Washington be draped in mourning, and all business suspended on the day of the funeral It is further ordered that the War and Navy Departments cause suitable military and naval honors to be paid on this occasion to the memory of the illustrious litizen who has passed from among us.

DIVORCE WITHOUT PUBLICITY.

Ending of the Famous Dalzell Case in New York.

The case of Emma Dalzell vs. Augustes S. Dalzell was up in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, again yesterday. A motion was made that the judgment of terday. A motion was made that the judgment of divorce granted in April last be vacated and defendant ordered to pay plaintif $5 a week for the support of herself and children, and $750 for counsel fees. Judge Tappen granted the order, and the judgment of divorce was set aside. This was a case which was disposed of on the report of a referee. Mr. S. V. Lowell, the referee, reported that Mrs. Dalzell was charged with committing afultery at the Belmont Hotel. New York, on the 5th of August, 1866, with a man named Henry Jones, and also with other men at other places unknown to her husband the plain at other places unknown to her husband, the plain-tiff. It was also alleged that copies of the proceed-ings in the case were served on Mrs. Dalzell at the Westchester House, but no answer being made by her the decree of divorce was granted.

Westchester House, but no answer being made by her, the decree of divorce was granted.

The facts of the case, however, are that during the whole time the suit was being prosecuted the de-fendant was in England, whither she had gone previous to the date on which it is alleged that she committed the adultery at the Belmont Hotel in New mitted the adultery at the Belmont Hotel in New York. The attorney who acted in the case is known as W. T. Laming, W. T. Laming, W. T. Laming, and M. T. Laming, and Mrs. Dalzell's counsel are at present unable to find out where he is doing business, but believe it is in California. Mr. Fisher, the New York inwyer, whose wife charges him with obtaining a divorce by fraud, is now in Raymond Street Jail on a charge of stealing the judgment roll in the suit of Dalzeil vs. Dalzeil, from the office of the County Clerk.—N. THE RISING TIDE.

Prophecy of an English Naval Officer. The prophecy of Saxby, the English naval officer, of a flood between the 5th and 9th of October, and from the 1st to the 36th of November, has produced lively antedituvian apprehensions among those who believe it. Saxby made a similar prediction of floods to occur in December, 1862, and recalls now the fact that he was thanked by persons saved from loss for the timely warning then conveyed. He says: "I believe in the infallibility of my conclusions from many years of observation, and I have invariably found that when certain combinations occur, atmospheric disturbance results to a very great extential over the world; and as these effects have always followed such (authors). followed such (supposed) causes, my belief is that we are threatened with extreme atmospheric dis-turbance at the periods mentioned."

TO-NIGHT,

Last performance of Balfe's

BOHEMIAN GIRL,

With Miss ROSK HERSEE,
In her charming, captivating personation of

ARIANE,

Which absolutely set the highly-intelligent and thoroughly musical audience of Thursday Evening into raptures.

THE INQUIRER says: "She sung and acted the part charmingly; indeed the role, as a whole, was never better done on the Academy boards."

THE AGE says so much in her praise that there is not space here to quote it.

THE PRESS says: "R'lle Hersee increased the good reputation made on the opening night."

THE NORTH AMERICAN says: "She sings with as fittle apparent rouble as the birds."

THE BULLETIN says: "Har performance was most admirable.

THE TELEGRAPH says: "She pages than confirmate." THE TELEGRAPH says: "She more than configued THE TELEGRAPH says:—"She more than configured the favorable impression made on her first appearance," In fact, the two appearances of Miss HERSEE have recured for her the highest praise from the entire press at d musical community of Philadelphia.

Second appearance of Mr. HENRY NORDBLOM, that young Swedish Tenor, who also achieved a signal success in the role of THADDENS, securing the universal commendation of his hearers on Thursday last.

First appearance of Mr. GUOTAVUS S. HALL in the role of COUNT ARNHEIM.

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL.

Will be presented TO-NIGHT with the same elaborate preparation of MISE EN SCENE as characterized its former production.

MONDAY NEXT—MARTHA.

Presented with the same cast which made it the great success of the New York season, and for the first time in Philadelphia with the grant representation of AN ENGLISH FAIR.

Which was pronounced by the New York press a scenic triumph seldom witnessed in grand opers.
